

Shipra leads YLAC as its Chief Executive Officer (CEO). She is a social impact professional with experience across civic engagement, digital safety, gender inclusion, climate justice, and youth leadership. Before joining YLAC, she worked extensively at the grassroots, leading initiatives that strengthened young people's engagement with local democratic processes and built safe, aspirational spaces for them. An alumna of the Tata Institute of Social Sciences (TISS), Mumbai, her expertise spans program design, stakeholder management, and team development – grounded in empathy, rigour, and a deep commitment to youth-centred leadership.

At TISS, Shipra specialised in women-centred practices as part of her Master's in Social Work, and she completed her undergraduate degree in English Honours from Motilal Nehru College, Delhi University. Outside of work, she enjoys writing poetry and exploring new forms of dance.
