

Vrinda Kapoor

Co- founder and CEO focused on building resilient sensors for critical missions. Works at the intersection of critical technology and national security- building secure supply chains for the foundational technologies that protect our democracies. She is a firm believer in the need for innovation at the physical-digital interface, for physical AI to become a reality, and is committed to building an enduring legacy.

Experience

- Founder and CEO, Bharat Semi
- Member, Semiconductor and Start-Up Resilience Work Stream, NITI Aayog
- Member, National Council, CII
- Chair, Defence Tech and Innovation Council, SIDM
- Member, Empowered Committee, Prime Minister's Awards for Excellence in Public Administration, Government of India
- Delegate, White House US- India High Technology Handshake

Achievements

- Contributed to national semiconductor and start-up resilience initiatives
- Led defence technology and innovation discussions within industry forums
- Represented India in strategic US–India high-technology engagement