The western world is broadening the ambit of its non-tariff barriers (NTBs) and Indian industry has to continuously prepare itself for any such scenario, a senior government official said on Thursday.

Anurag Jain, secretary at the department for the promotion of industry and internal trade (DPIIT), said, earlier some nations used to talk about stringent labour laws and sustainability; but now, they not just seem to be talking about issues like human rights but they want to link them to business and trade.

Jain said several groups within the government are working on the ‘Vision 2047’ for the country.

“So, what our finance ministry and the economists of the country have come out with... They have created three scenarios of India's growth in these 25 years. The most pessimistic, most optimistic and the most realistic...”.

“The most realistic scenario says that today we are $3.2 trillion economy, (by) 2047 we will be $32.8 trillion economy, 10 times of the current size in these 25 years,” he said.

On the Independence Day, Prime Minister Narendra Modi had called for a solemn pledge to turn India into a developed country by 2047.
