MESSAGE

It is heartening to learn about Public Affairs Forum of India (PAFI) organising the 8th edition of its annual National Forum through the virtual mode.

The spirit of this year's theme – "Reviving the economy: Reimagine. Reboot. Reform" is visible in India's resolute efforts as we move ahead to create a New India. The annual Forum itself exemplifies the resilience of mankind against the once in a century pandemic.

In the midst of the challenges posed by COVID, India remained firm to undertake reforms even when major economies of the world became defensive. In the post-COVID world, India is steadfastly striving towards self-reliance, for global good.

Our Government has been committed to ensure that governance becomes process-driven and people-centric. Our emphasis has been on making development holistic and inclusive.

Through reforms aimed at transforming every sector, be it agriculture, manufacturing, industry or infrastructure, India is marching ahead at a rapid pace. Technology and innovation have played the role of enabler and force multiplier towards ensuring the last-mile reach of our delivery systems.

As the nation celebrates Amrit Mahotsav of its Independence, our vision to build a glorious India is driven by the collective resolve of 130 crore citizens. The role of valued stakeholders such as PAFI assumes even greater importance in such a scenario to capitalise on the opportunities in the resurgent New India.

I am sure that the deliberations at this edition of National Forum will provide vital inputs for policy makers, businesses and civil society to chart out a futuristic roadmap and be a part of our growth story with the mantra of 'Sabka Saath, Sabka Vikas, Sabka Vishwas, Sabka Prayas'.

Best wishes for highly successful deliberations at the 8th edition of PAFI's National Forum.
